Contracts are used as a tool for growth. They represent the house's attempt to help a member improve behaviors and maintain good membership in the house. Failure to complete the contract may result in the member being expelled. A majority vote in a house meeting is required to issue contracts, end contracts, or expell members. The member in question should be present for all discussions and maintains a voice and a vote in all house decisions.

This contract was approved by a majority vote in a house meeting.

The details of the contract are recorded in the meeting minutes.

This Oxford House is committed to taking every action necessary to support the recovery and growth of all House Members: past, present, and future. However, the health and integrity of the house always comes first and principles are always placed ahead of personalities.
